The Corener is uncertain as to what he will do down the westbound steps of the railroad station at New-Rochelle on Saturday evening while re-turning from Glen Island. Her brother, Charles; her slater, Mamie, and a friend, Irving Tier, all saw the accident and say that she was running shead of the crowd when she fell. When the girl was picked up it was found that her neck had been broken. Coroner Banning says that he will make a careful examination of the steps leading to the station, and that if there is anything unusual in the construction which might have caused Miss Vander Roest's death, or is dangerous to the general public, he will bring the case before the courts. He will not, however, hold an inquest unless it is desired by Miss Vander Roest's relatives. Anna Vander Roest was seventeen years old, and lived with her parents in South Third-ave. Mount Vernon. Her father, William Vander Roest, is a dealer in laces and feathers, and has a store at No. 57 East Ninth-st. New-York. The girl was a pupil in the Mount Vernon High School, and was popular among her classmates. She took great interest in the military drill of the young women of the High School and used to conduct the exercises herself. She had just recovered from a long attack of typhoid fever, and with her brother, sister and friends, had gone to Glen Island on Saturday for a refreshing plunge in the water. The inquest was held in the police station, the jury returning the verdict that she "came to her death by swellowing carbolle acid."

Angelo Papa, an Italian laborer, while at a mixed ale and card party on Saturday night, had a quarrei with Nicolo Muscalino, a fellow-countryman, who attacked him with a stiletto and stabbed him several times in the abdomen. The injured man is now at the hospital and will probably die. The effair was not made known to police until yesterday morning, when Patrolman Ecubor, an Italian officer, was detailed to capture Muscalino. The latter, who was hiding in Tuckahoe, sent a message to Mount Vernon at noon to find out whether or not his victim was dead. The officers shadowed the messenger on his return to T. zahoe and arrested Muscalino.

WHITE PLAINS. Fire broke out in the top floor of Thompson Brothers' planing mill, near the Harlem Railroad nd south of the station, at 2:15 o'clock yesterday, It was extinguished before any harm was done. A workman who went to the mill to do a little Sunday work for himself dropped a match on the floor and stepped on it. A large pile of shavings caught fire from the match, and when the man happened to look in the direction of the shavings the pile was all ablaze. He put the fire out with several pails of water. All the fire companies responded to the alarm which was sent in, but their aid was not needed.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Trustees to night in the village rooms, in Grand-st. The contract for taking care of the fire alarm system will then be awarded.

PELHAM.

Sunday baseball playing in the town of Pelham reached a cilmax yesterday, as many expected that it would, after reading of the decision which the Citizens' League made at its last meeting, to put an end to the practice. Yesterday, as usual, the noisy crowds and their followers were on hand. Every arrangement was made for a lively game between Yonkers team and the deaf mutes of St. Francis Xavier's Institute in New-York. As the teams Xavier's Institute in New-York. As the teams lined up on the grounds they were surprised to find that President Caddwell of the village, Justice of the Pesce Young John Fairchild, brother of Congressman Fairchild, and other citizeds, with a number of constables, had taken charge of the diamond. The players were told that they could not proceed with the game, under penalty of the law. The villagers said that they did not object so much to the playing of baseball as they did to the disorderly crowds. Captain Lloyd, of the mutes, then wrote on a piece of paper, "But we are not noisy neonle."

DENOUNCED FROM A PULPIT.

THE REV. DR. ROBERT S. MACARTHUR ON THE CHICAGO PLATFORM

"I am to-night to contrast Christian patriotism with the Chicago platform. Christian patriotism, in the first place, cares for the interests of all parts The Chicago platform and the in regard to the accidental death of Miss Anna Vander Roest, which was caused by her falling is one of its chief glories. We ware be the Republic is one of its chief glories. We were barely recover-ing from the sectional spirit introduced by the war. We had begun to see that there was no longer any North or South, any East or West. Now comes this platform fanning the flame of this sectional spirit. This is most unfortunate. This is well nigh criminal. No country can prosper when its inter ests are divided. Great Britain is bringing its widely-extended empire into a closer federative union. We in this platform are striving to divide our beloved Republic into sections. This sectional spirit is a traitorous spirit and it is unworthy of any man who claims to be a loyal American citiand prosperous people. The East needs the West, and the West the East; neither can prosper without the other. We are one people and God grant we may remain so. The man who inculcates this sectional spirit merits the condemnation of every patriot. No matter what your party affiliations may have been in the past, cast your vote now so as to rebuke this spirit. Are Americans to be the foes of Americans? Was not one civil strife quite as to rebuke this spirit. Are Americans to be the foes of Americans? Was not one civil strife quite enough in American history? Are we to have a number of petty republics instead of this glorious American Union?

Dr. MacArthur then said that the Chicago platform threatened to degrade the Supreme Court of the United Stater, which, he said, was the court of last resort.

"This court," said he, "is the authoritative interpreter of the Constitution. To degrade it would be a National calamity. Do the supporters of this platform want Anarchy? Do they not know that Christian patriotism insists that law is king and must rule? That platform propounds and promulgates dangerous doctrines. Its teaching comes perilously near being revolutionary. Americanism is not Anarchism.

In the third place, the outcome of the Chicago platform is to put a premium on financial dishonesty. To-day an ounce of gold is worth thirty ounces of silver. The ratio of 16 to 1 would make stateen ounces of silver worth one of gold. It is proposed to give every man who takes 53 cents worth of silver to the mint and has it coined a dollar which shall be a legal tender. It is proposed by a Government flat to give value where value does not intrinsically exist. You might as well by a Government flat make water run up a hill. One might as well by a Government flat make water run up a hill. One might as well by a Government flat only the value of wheat or pig iron as attempt to double the value of silver. The spirit of the Chicago platform at this point is the essence of dishonor and dishonesty.
"Is the Nation ready to stand before the world in the chicago platform at this point is the essence of dishonor and dishonesty."

form at this point is the essence of dishonor and dishonesty.

"Is the Nation ready to stand before the world as repudiator of its National obligations? If we pay only 53 cents on the dollar we become repudiators. We practically take by force what is not our own. We become robbers of the rich and the poor and are dishonest stewards before God. It is proposed to set class satinst class, but the practical outcome will be to impoverish all classes alike.

"The dangers that are upon us are not imaginary. A great political party has been carried off into the camp of its enemy and the enemy of the Nation. Let every real American formerly a member of that party leave its ranks."

Dr. MacArthur will preach the second of the series on the Chicago platform next Sunday.

THE CENTRAL LABOR UNION.

The meeting of the Central Labor Union in Clarendon Hall yesterday was presided over by Herman Robinson. Mr. Bausch told of his experience with a police-committee appointed by the Woodcarvers' Union to talk with the men employed by John P. Klatthauer, at No. 178 Wooster-st., where a strike is in progress. A policeman was stationed there, and ordered him away on pain of arrest as a sus-picious character. The committee, Mr. Bausch said, had been to the Police Commissioners and learned of their right to talk to the men. When threatened with arrest Mr. Bausch went to the station and complained to the officer in charge, and Coroner's Physician Philip F. O'Hanlon called there early in the afternoon and performed an autopsy on the body. He found that leath was due to asphyxlation by illuminating gas A man, who said he was Thomas C. that he lived at No. 51 North Fortleth-st., Philadelphia, was present when the autopsy was made to Philadelphia. In answer to questions concerning the dead man, he told Dr. O'Hanlon that Fishe who was single and thirty-eight years old, lived with his father and mother at No. 4,003 Sansom-st. Philadelphia. He speculated in stocks, Mr. Sloane said, and had lost about six months ago between $30,000 and $40,000. His severe loss seemingly un cone he gree assumed to any one with whom he was acquainted.

This constant worry brought on til-health. His friends noticed that he was not himself, and believed that his mind was unbalanced. Not long ago he bought a fast horse and a handsome carriage, bads several friends lump in the carriage, and, after taking them for a ride, sold the horse and carriage the same day for one-half the purchase price. He is said to have repeated this performance several times. Dr. C'Hanlon was unable to learn Fisher's occupation.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the body was shipped to Philadelphia in charge of Mr. Sloane. The effects of the dead man were turned over by the people of the hotel on Saturday evening to the police, who took them to the Coroner's office. Mr. Sloane called there vesterday for them. He showed what purported to be an order from Fisher's relatives for the dead man's effects, but the clerks at the Coroner's office were in doubt as to whether or not the letter was really from Fisher's parents, and in consequence refused to give them to Mr. Sloane.

ham wishes to correct a statement made by our reverend pastor from the altar. He claimed we never contributed anything toward the church; we claim we did, and our records will show the same and, if necessary, can be substantiated by affidavit. Our society charges only 25 cents monthly dues, which is not sufficient to meet the demands made upon us, having a good many old and feeble members to look after. Therefore we give an annual excursion and ball to keep our funds in a way to meet all demands made upon us, as our benefits call for $5 a week for three months in case of sickness or disability, and $50 for each death.

The family to which Mr. Pell belonged is one of the oldest in the country. descended from John Pell, the first lord of Pelham Manor, and all the deeds of property in that sec tion go back to him. He, in turn, was descended from Walter de Pelham, of Norfolk, England.

The dead man's father, Alfred S, Pell, was a wealthy resident of this city, and it was from him that Pell-st, was named. His mother's father was Judge Duane, the first Mayor of New-York. Judge Duane, together with Chancellor Living-ston, presided at the first inauguration of George Washington as President of the United States, and Duane-st. is named from him. The centennial of the inauguration of Judge Duane as Mayor of New-York was celebrated by Mr. Pell by a reception to the members of the family and their

Mr. Pell's early life was spent in New-York, and he was graduated from Columbia College in the class of 1840, of which William C. Schermerhorn and Ogden Hoffman were also members. While Daniel Webster was Secretary of State Mr. Pell received the appointment as United States Consul to the the appointment as United States Consul to the Rhenish Provinces, and he held this office for some time. While there he travelled extensively on foot along the Rhine, visiting the places of historic interest and collecting many interesting relies and curloosties. Since then he has not held any public office, and he never entered business.

In 1833 he was married to Miss Mary Bruen, a daughter of George W. Bruen, of this city, who was an East India merchant and a close friend of Lord Byron. Shortly after his marriage he went to live in the house at the southwest cerner of Fifth-ave, and Thirty-infin-st, which continued to be his home until a short time ago. He never entered business life, and has never held any public office with the exception of the consulate. After the graduation of his only child, Affred Duane Peli, from Columbia College in the class of 1857, the father and son had spent most of their time in travel alroad.

The house in which Mr. Pell died, at Seventy-fourth-st, and Fifth-ave, is one of the largest and handsomest in the neighborhood, and was purchased by his son about a year ago from Wilhelm Pickhardt. The house had already been in process of construction for many years, and is still unfainshed. When purchased the house was a large one, and Mr. Pell had added ten rooms since then the intends it for the reception of his many art tressures and curios, as well as for a home.

George W. Pell and his son have long been members of St. Thomas's Church, but as that is now closed for repairs, the funeral will be held in St. Thomas's Chapel. Mr. Pell leaves only one unmarried son.

A FIGHT OVER BAGGAGE.

THE HOTEL PORTER'S HILARITY CAUSED A LIVELY ENCOUNTER, OF WHICH HE GOT On the arrival of the steamer Umbria late Saturday evening a number of her passengers were conveyed by private carriages to the Murray Hill Hotel. Park-ave. and Fortieth-st., where they spent the night. In the early hours of yesterday merning their baggage began to arrive at the hotel Everything had gone smoothly thus far. The passengers had already registered and retired to their rooms. "Pat" Dunn, the night porter of the hotel, however, wanted to have his own way about the delivery of the baggage. In fact, it is said "Pat" was in a very hilarious mood. The express baggagemen, however, were in no frame of mind for hilarity of any kind. The result was that a serious dispute arose as to where the baggage should be delivered, resulting in a general fight. Bricks and clubs were freely used. Finally a policeman took charge of the closing part of the scene and furnished lodgings for all concerned at the station. "Pat" Dunn, the porter, had one of his arms broken in three places. As to the others, they bore sad evidences of the encounter.

On reflection both parties in the fight agreed to call it a draw, and each refused to prefer charges against the other when arraigned in court yesterday morning. They were therefore discharged. Bricks and clubs were freely used. Finally a

NAMED FOR OFFICERS IN "BIG SIX."

THE ADMINISTRATIONISTS OF THE UNION NOMI-NATE THEIR TICKET.

The administrationists of Typographical Union No. 6 met in Clarendon Hall yesterday to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The meeting was largely attended and the balloting lasted until late in the evening. There were several candidates for all the principal offices with the exception of that of secretary. Nearly 1,000 members voted. It was worked so hard for their nomination was because the nominations were looked upon as equivalent to an election. The anti-administrationists, however, ren on the other side, are confident of victory. "Big Six" is the strongest labor organization n the city, The administrationists won by 274 votes.

The anti-administrationists held their nominating The anti-administrationists held their nominaling caucus several weeks ago and their ticket is headed by James M.
